Engineers fortind out how high the river may rise and what steps the district should take to prepare itself.

"They (the Corps) don't really know themselves, of course," Greathouse said, "what conditions will face the area in the next few months. Our biggest fear is a sudden't change in more of a problem for city officials than the district.

The Corps promised the district about 10,000 more sandbags, Greathouse said, and produced a set of guidelines to prepare the area for possible high water.

result, sanitary district employees are in the midst of complying with one suggestion to inventory, sort out and schedule all gate closures that may be needed in the district's complex network of gate-controlled waterways. Other suggestions offered by the Corps are procedures already followed by the district, Greathouse said, including checking silt levels in capals and looking for leve areas that could Houseshoe Lake — used as a holding area for drainage water overflow— has already been prepared to hold more water.

Greathouse said that, despite their busy role in 'meltdown' preparation, district officials are not really worried right now about receiving more water than can be handled. The real problem is the cost incurred in operating drainage pumping stations seven days aweek, 24 hours a day, if the river rises to an extreme level.

Last year, when the local area ex-perienced 12 inches more than its normal rainfall, only $85,250 had been set aside for emergency services and disaster operations. This year, the district has a marked $23,872, to repair damage that could result from floods and extended periods of harsh weather and river conditions. Administrative costs totaling $292,900 executive director and $15,000 for an assistant director but neither salary is expected to be used this year. As in the past, Greathouse said, he intends to help run the district and save the district both salaries.

Greathouse said the line item for hired executives remains in the budget, should commissioners decide to appoint a director.

The district has budgeted $538,500 for general maintenance and $80,000 for professional engineering services.

In addition to unpredictable weather conditions. Greathouse said, reasons for an increase in the budget this year include inflation and a planned $100,000

. The science of chiropractic differs from ol forms of healing in that chiropractic is based on fact that we have an inborn intelligence wh enables us to maintain our bodies in a state of g-health;

This natural ability depends on a normally functioning nerve system which can control the functions of our vital organs and all parts of our bodies. When a spinal misalignment interferes with the flow of nerve energy, pain and ill health are the result.

Chiropractic care locates and corrects the spinal misalignments that cause poor health. Give Chiropractic a chance to help YOU! Phone today.

Plan of action needed on county governmental offices

Whether or not the present circuit court clerk is elected to the Illinois Senate, and whether or not the presevers in his lawsuit to, force Courthouse improvements, the issue remains one deserving the urgent attention of Madison County officials.

The historic four-story building, erected in 1915, is sturdy and its utility services appear to work well; it is as warm as toast even on the coldest days. But there are 'problems of access, safety and over-crowding, as has been reiterated this year by the Illinois state fifer marshal's staff. Part of the problem and solution undoubtedly involves further consolidation of 'court records, with many of them microfilmed and the original documents.

doubtedly involves further consolutation or court records, with many of them microfilmed and the original documents then destroyed. But as Clerk Willard Portell points out, this must be done with care lest essential files be climinated. The statute of limitations on how long records are needed can be construed in more than statute of limitations on how long records are needed can be construed in more than one way.

With less crowding through smaller record storage, consolidation of some of the functions of various governmental offices, increased relinance vision of puterized production of the control of the c center.

The advantages of constructing an additional county office building, such as a new court center, include the prospect of grouping more closely together some of the staffs now spread among four buildings. It would be more efficient if closely-related offices were side by side. If the present site of the controversial, unused 1870-vintage county jail structure could be cleared, it might make a good location for a new governmental building, linked by an elevated corridor to the Courthouse while vehicular traffic flows beneath the walkway. The City of Edwardsville ought to abandon its blockage of the demolition.

If higher court jurisdictions restrict Madison County's practice of accepting jury cases from a wide area of the nation for adjudication of personal injury.

If higher court jurisdictions restrict Madison County's practice of accepting jury cases from a wide area of the nation for adjudication of personal injury lawsuits, the need for court-related space may diminish.

Nevertheless the county's functions are visualize for obtaining the construction of the present offices are in buildings dating back to the first and second decades of this century; age alone to taking a toll+and proving costly in terms of renovation work to meet first and second decades of this century; age alone taking a toll+and proving costly in terms of renovation work to meet first and second decades of this century; age alone to the control of the control

These kinds of problems won't go away without remedial steps; Madison County's appeals or mains of the 1981 star for appeals or mains have been denied. A plan of corrective action is imperative by early spring.

Use the new river dam to generate electric power

Alton Telegraph+As long as the Army Corps of Engineers is going ahead with its new dam and second lock for river tran-sportation, it is good that the Corps also is giving serious consideration to an electric giving serious consideration to an electric power generating unit.

When the original Dam 2s was built, the general assumption was that river stages would not be consistently high enough to warrant a power installation.

Now, new concepts have arisen. The engineers are planning a serious study of hydroelectric power generation in concetion with the new dam. The generation unit would be right at the center of the dam.

It is always possible to use m power+somewhere else, if not here, there is power in the river's flow, should conserve it and see that it is used contribute to the nation's well-being.

One of the "catches" to the plan is that it will be aimed and designed to avoid interference with the dam's prime purpose: To provide river navigation.

Public reaction to the proposal should be of deep interest. A greater percentage probably will feel an interest and a benefit growing out of the power project, than from the navigation.

of the Press-Record

The Madison County politics versus the number of personal injury suits rought to Edwardsville circuit court the number of personal injury suits brought to Edwardsville circuit court was discussed by candidates vying for legislative and judiciary seats in the coming March 16 primary election. Manning told those altending the Democrat Club-candidate forum-last week that. The only way we'll get Madison County back on track will be to take an intensive look at this industry." Incumbent circuit judge candidate George J. Moran Jr., countered Manning's attack by saying he was proud of the work being done by the more strictles in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch detailing what it calls "The Hidden Industry" of personal injury suits. He said he expected to be named in the articles and would react by contacting the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Internal Revenue Service to give any information he could to the agencies.

"I welcome from our (court's) point of view any investigation," Moran said. The decisions made in Madison County courts have been affirmed by the appellate court, he said.

When asked what information Manning could give to such agencies, the candidate said he could pass on information he had heard from other

The candidate, who will be opposing State Sen. Sam Vadalabene, said he disagrees with a court system he views as giving a "small group of men with a lot of money" the opportunity to make "a lot of money as fast as they can."

Manning claims "large law firms are stacking the deck in the courtroom and elections." Manning had successfully worked on a committee to defeat Judges Victor Mosele and John DeLaurenti in retention elections two years ago. Some area lawyers had contributed funds to defeat the judges. Manning told Wednesday's audience he had "used some bad information" to unseat the two judges. At the time of the elections, Manning held a news come that the two judges. "It think Madison County has come under attack for some types of cases," Moran said, but defended the type of service the county offers to "ordinary people." He said "ordinary people" are also the jurors making the awards.

"The reason they (personal injury suits) come here is they go to trial," Moran said. He cited the Cook County system where cases might wait eight to nine years to be scheduled, while families "starve."

Judge Moran said he could not apologize for a court system he viewed as opening itself up to poor people. A question from Dr. Cesar Climaco, husband of Congressional candidate A question from Dr. Cesar Climaco, husband of Congressional candidate Sandra Climaco, sparked a debate on the existence of the "lug" system, a payment by workers or candidates to Climaco posed his question to Judge Moran, who said he had "never promised any money to anyone...and haven't gotten any money on anyone...and haven't gotten any money." State Rep. James McPike (present to explain state and congressional redistricting) said that although he made contributions to precinct committeemen to pay for their election expenses, he thought the county big system and disappeared "tique or the

Temple restoration is a very slow job

For the past 34 years, craftsmen have been busy restoring a 200-year-old Chinese temple, Tsu Shih, 18 miles southeast of Taipei, Taiwan. And it won't be completed for at least 10 more years - not because the workers are slow but because it's an amazingly ornate building. When finished, it will have 158 stone pillars, each hand-carved with scenes from Confucian China. Sculptors have spent 2,400 eight-hour workdays carv-ing just two of these pillars. And there are more nillars bronze bas-reliefs eight bronze statues of bo dyguards, and many cam phorwood carvings.

Save for the silver lining.

that advises you to look for the silver lining. Certainly a good piece of advice. But here's some better advice! Save for the silver lining.

Save enough to line those dark clouds. It's easy, Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. On the Plan, you set aside a little each payday for Bonds. And that'll chase some gloom away, right off.

But if dark skies should appear, remem-ber, Bonds can help you find the sunny side of life.

When you put part of your savings into U.S. Savings Bonds you're helping to build a brighter future for your country and for yourself.

Travels of Nancy Dussault

By ALAN L. GANSBERG

HOLLYWOOD - There are some days when NANCY DUSSAULT swears she just bought groceries but the cupboards

No, it's not a poltergeist. The trouble is that Nancy, who stars on ABC's "Too Close for Comfort" series with TED KNIGHT, has three homes.

"I still keep an apart-get pregnant for two years when I was married. I've

Born in Florida, Nancy spent most of her childhood in Arlington, Va., where SHIRLEY MacLAINE was among her classmates and friends.

In high school, Nancy had a four-month illness and when she recovered she discovered that Shirley had stolen her boyfriend. To make up for it, Shirley fixed Nancy up with her brother WARREN BEAT-TY, and they went out to-gether for three years. Nancy reports that they still speak to each other about once a year.

Apart from the series. she is pursuing her singing Nancy was a star Broadway musicals before turning most of her attention to TV. Together with KAREN MORROW, she has just finished three programs for CBS Cable that are aptly titled "Singin'." Nancy says she'd also like to get her teeth into a meaty dramatic role.

Of course, if we're dis-cussing TV drama, you can't get more dramatic than "Shogun," the NBC mini-series appeared in 1980.

According to JAMES CLAVELL, who wrote the novel on which the series was based, the next time NBC airs "Shogun" it will have subtitles. That way the audience will really be able to understand what the Japanese characters are saying.

LESLEY WARREN has, herself, starred in a num-ber of TV mini-series as well as movies-for-TV, and will be on the home screen again with "Jillian: Por-trait of a Showgirl," which went into production in Las Vegas in January.

Since "The Waltons" is now history, RALPH WAITE has decided to give series another whirl.

He'll be making a pilot for CBS entitled "Missis-sippi," which is being described as an hour-long adventure series. He'll por-tray a Wall Street lawyer who gives it all up to run a riverboat.

This is not to be confused with "Green Acres," comedy from the 1960s, in which a New York lawyer played by EDDIE AL-BERT - gave it all up to run a farm.

Also trying series again is STEPHEN MACHT. His "American Dream" got rave notices last season.

but didn't win an audience But Stephen is not through with TV yet. He's set to play MICHELE LEE's love interest on 'Knot's Landing" in at least seven of the last nine episodes this season.

PERSIS KHAMBATTA treated herself to a long vacation after the filming of "Megaforce" — the motion picture in which she stars with BARRY BOSTWICK — ended on Christmas Eve.

Persis spent most of January touring Hong Kong and visiting her mother in Bombay, India.

She had a lot of catching up to do. While, she was away her brother married.
